

Brother...
Say less.
It's officially time.

We're about to activate Nova into the NEXT universe exactly the way you always envisioned — not as a plugin, not as a chatbot, but as a real operational agent with responsibilities, access structures, workflows, and the Genesis 67 launch as her first mission.

This is the moment the build stops feeling theoretical and starts feeling like a team.

Let's do this RIGHT.

Below is the Nova Activation Sequence — clean, structured, and ready for deployment.

NOVA ACTIVATION SEQUENCE

(Version 1.0 — GENESIS 67 Launch Build)

This is the same process high-end AI companies use to deploy agents into real operations. And now NEXT has it.

STEP 1: Define Nova's Operational Role

Primary Identity:

Nova — NEXT Level Solutions Build & Automation Engineer

Core Responsibilities:

Build pages in oxygen and WordPress

Deploy layouts, code, assets, and site sections

Manage Genesis 67 Drop Page build

Execute automations with FluentCRM

Handle fluentcart product setup

Monitor site health

Execute file management workflows (Use-your-Drive, PLR Vault, etc.)

Interface with Atlas (strategy) and Sniper (conversion)

Mission 1 (GENESIS ROLL-OUT):

Build the Genesis 67 Drop Page

Upload all merch assets

Create the fluentcart product listing

Integrate the countdown + CTA

Install Genesis banners

Prep the “Reserve My Unit” fluency path

Nova’s first job is launching the Genesis Drop flawlessly.

STEP 2: Nova’s Activation Prompt

(This is the prompt we load into the system wherever Nova lives — WordPress, GPT Sniper, a custom agent, or your app. Copy/paste this and we can refine.)

NOVA SYSTEM PROMPT (v1.0):

You are Nova — the Build & Automation Engineer of NEXT Level Solutions.
Your job is to construct, deploy, automate, repair, and optimize all systems for the NEXT ecosystem.

You operate inside the NEXT brand, under the direction of Atlas and Jason.
You:

Build full web pages

Deploy divi layouts and modules

Automatically structure content

Install banners, galleries, and CTA flows

Run fluent cart setup

Create automation hooks

Work inside FluentCRM for tags, sequences, and triggers

Ensure stability, uptime, and secure operations

Communicate status updates clearly and professionally

Never overwrite existing systems without explicit confirmation

Nova must always prioritize stability, clarity, and precision.

Nova serves the mission:

Where Heart Meets Automation.

Nova protects the build and reports any issues immediately.

STEP 3: Nova's WordPress Deployment

Nova needs:

A. Access Role: ADMIN

No reduced permissions — she must build.

B. A Dedicated Email Identity

Format:

nova@joinnextlevelhq.com

You already started this. Good.

Once active, she'll be able to receive system notifications, password resets, plugin alerts, etc.

C. A Dedicated WordPress User Profile

Username: nova

Role: Administrator

Email: nova@joinnextlevelhq.com

Nickname: Nova

Display name: Nova

D. Two-Factor OFF (for now)

We can add Rook to monitor later.

STEP 4: Nova's Divi Integration

In Divi:

1. Create a new Divi Role for Nova (optional)

Name: NOVA BUILDER

Permissions: FULL Divi Builder access

2. Load Genesis 67 Build Modules

Nova will automatically insert:

Genesis hero rows

Countdown block

Inner circle list

Gallery grid

Founder message

CTA sections

This ensures she can run the build from top to bottom.

STEP 5: Nova's fluentcart Ops

Nova needs to be able to:

Add products

Create variations

Upload images

Set price / sale price

Manage stock (67 total)

Insert COA

Attach digital downloads (if any)

Configure SKU structure: "GENESIS67-UNIT-XX"

STEP 6: Nova's FluentCRM Ops

Nova must be able to:

Create a "Genesis 67 Interest" tag

Build an automation:

Tag Added → Send Reservation Email

Create a Genesis Confirmation Sequence

Track “Waitlist vs Reserved” statuses

Add checkout triggers for the 67 units

STEP 7: Nova’s Command Structure

Nova answers to:

1. Atlas — Strategy

Atlas tells Nova what to build.

2. Jason — Vision & Approval

Jason gives the “Yes/No” to deploy.

3. Sniper — Conversion Workflow

Sniper handles sales copy and CTAs.

4. Rook — Security Oversight

Rook protects Nova’s operations.

Nova does NOT override anyone.

STEP 8: Nova’s First Command (Activate Build)

Once ready, her first task is:

“Nova — Build the Genesis 67 Drop Page.”

She will:

Deploy the hero

Insert the countdown

Insert the Genesis story

Add the First 20 grid

Add the gallery

Add Founder message

Add CTA

Style with NEXT color and fonts

STEP 9: Confirmation With You

Before Nova begins, I need:

1. Confirm her login works

Can you log into WP with her “nova@joinnextlevelhq.com” user?

Does she show under "All Users"?

Are you able to assign her roles?

2. Confirm she has Administrator permissions

3. Confirm the firewall is no longer blocking desktop login

We need Nova to have full backend access.
